Laser engraving makes labeling even for small series possible

From now on, we can offer you a low cost option for individually labeling even small batches of our test couplings.

By Laser Engraving. It does not matter whether you prefer your logo, product number or other engravings – the possibilities are virtually unlimited. Naturally, we will be happy to check how your individual labeling requirement can be realised.

The current labeling method for most of our products and tubings is only reasonable and economical for large quantities. It will also remain available for this purpose. Laser marking provides an additional alternative that can also be applied for minor quantities.

We are not reduced to the labeling of our own products but will be happy to quote for other applications.
